Kirby T. Griffis tries cases for corporate clients in high-stakes pharmaceutical and medical device, and products liability litigation, and in serial litigation cases of national importance. A recent trial victory was to force a favorable settlement on the last day before closing arguments in a 26-year-old personal-injury case in the Civil District Court for Orleans Parish, Louisiana, an American Tort Reform Association-certified hellhole jurisdiction. Ezeb v. Sandoz Pharm. Corp., No. 1992-20622 (La. Civ. D. Ct. June 21, 2016). The National Law Journal named Mr. Griffis a "Winning Litigator", one of only twenty lawyers nationwide to be so recognized in the 2015 special report.

Mr. Griffis earlier won a defense verdict in a pharmaceutical personal-injury case in federal court in Tampa, Florida, with the jury out for less than forty-five minutes after a three-week trial. Dopson-Troutt v. Novartis Pharm. Corp., No. 8:06-cv-1708-T-24-EAJ (M.D. Fl. April 9, 2013). He tried a bellwether hernia mesh case in Texas that resulted in a defense victory after the jury was out for less than an hour, putting an end to the entire litigation. See Crowson v. Davol, Inc., No. A-03-CA-668-SS, slip op. (W.D. Tex. June 10, 2004). Mr. Griffis has won other pharma cases, in which plaintiffs were seeking millions in settlement, both at trial and by summary judgment victories as trial approached. He has successfully defended the Firm's victories in multiple appellate forums, and has argued before the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Griffis has also helped to resolve many of the Firm's complex matters by engineering Daubert victories and other summary dispositions. These include setting up and briefing the first Daubert summary judgment in the Parlodel® litigation of 1998-2004 and extensive involvement with the "Parlodel trilogy" of appellate-level Daubert wins: Glastetter v. Novartis Pharm. Corp., 252 F.3d 986 (8th Cir. 2001), aff'g 107 F. Supp. 2d 1015 (E.D. Mo. 2000); Hollander v. Sandoz Pharm. Corp., 289 F.3d 1193 (10th Cir. 2002), aff'g 95 F. Supp. 2d 1230 (W.D. Okla. 2000); and Siharath v. Sandoz Pharm. Corp. / Rider v. Sandoz Pharm. Corp., 295 F.3d 1194 (11th Cir. 2002), aff'g 131 F. Supp. 2d 1347 (N.D. Ga. 2001). Two of his significant summary judgment victories are based on proximate causation in a pair of cases in which plaintiffs were seeking approximately one million dollars each in settlement on the eve of judgment for the defense: Zimmerman v. Novartis Pharm. Corp., 889 F. Supp. 2d 757 (D. Md. 2012) and Ingram v. Novartis Pharm. Corp., 888 F. Supp. 2d 1241 (W.D. Okla. 2012).

The depth of his experience is a byproduct of the leadership roles he has played in a number of mass-tort litigation contexts. Leading litigation teams both large and small, Mr. Griffis has coordinated the defense of serial litigation consisting of individual cases, class actions, and consolidated state and federal court proceedings. He was defense liaison counsel for the Composix Kugel MDL in the U.S. District Court for the District of Rhode Island and he has helped clients
