Katherine E. Nolan practices in the Firm's Complex Litigation, Pharmaceutical Products, and Toxic Torts & Products Liability groups.

Ms. Nolan has experience in defending corporate clients in commercial litigation, including construction and engineering disputes, breach of contract, and design claims, as well as mass toxic tort claims. Her practice extends to serial litigation, multidistrict litigation, and class action litigation.

She is currently defending a major engineering, procurement, and construction (EPC) contractor against alleged breach of contract, professional negligence, and fraud claims arising from the design, engineering, and construction of a nearly $1 billion agrochemical plant in Arkansas Circuit Court. She will work as a team member at the upcoming 10-12 week jury trial.

A 2020 Capital Pro Bono Honoree, Ms. Nolan successfully represented three developmentally disabled children in D.C. Superior Court in a complex child-custody dispute involving a lengthy procedural history, multiple generations, and several intra-family offenses by multiple parties.

Immediately prior to joining the Firm, she clerked for the Honorable Judge Jennifer M. Anderson of the D.C. Superior Court. Ms. Nolan has experience in document review on federal criminal matters, including the Anti-Kickback Statute and the False Claims Act.

Ms. Nolan received her J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center. During law school, she served as a Law Clerk in the Office of Chief Counsel, U.S. Department of Commerce Trade Enforcement & Compliance, where she drafted briefs for the Department of Justice defending antidumping and countervailing duty determinations in the U.S. Court of International Trade and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. She was a Georgetown Law Pro Bono Pledge Honoree and received the Institute of International Economic Law WTO Certification for advanced specialization in global trade, ADR, and international litigation. She graduated magna cum laude from St. John's University with a B.S. in Legal Studies.
